Hearsts Slip Away Quietly To Ponder Future Actions

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — Saying he wants "to get it together," Randolph A. Hearst has slipped quietly away to Mexico where he will consider what to do next to win freedom for his kidnapped daughter.

"He doesn't really want to be in this house and he doesn't know what to do, so he is going somewhere where he can think about it a little more," said nephew William Randolph Hearst III. Meanwhile, American Indian Movement leader Dennis Banks said he has agreed to try contacting the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army to arrange a reunion for the Hearsts with their daughter Patricia.

"(Randolph Hearst) asked me if I would begin a national appeal to the SLA with hopes of arranging a meeting between AIM, Patty and the Hearsts," Banks said in a telephone interview from St. Paul, Minn.

"The idea was to see if she could be given a three-day pass, a 24-hour pass or a week pass so she could spend some time with the family. After that she would be free to return to the SLA," he said.

Hearst, his wife, Catherine, and two of their five daughters, Virginia Bosworth, 24, and Anne Hearst, 18, departed before dawn Sunday and flew from San Francisco to La Paz, a fishing resort on the tip of Baja California, said the pilot of the jet chartered by the Hearsts.

The Hearst nephew said they would be gone four days but would return immediately pending any new developments in the case.

"Randy said to me he's gone to regroup and kind of get it together and try to find out where he can go from here," the nephew said.

A family friend insisted the Hearsts were not headed for a rendezvous with the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army, which claimed responsibility for dragging 20-year-old Patricia Hearst screaming from her apartment 63 days ago.

He was active in state and local Masonic organizations and was a member of Pickaway Lodge 23, F&AM, Pickaway Shrine Club, Aladdin Temple Shrine and Scottish Rite.

Mr. Edstrom was a charter member of Circleville Lions Club, a member of BPO Elks 77, the Fraternal Order of Police Associates, and the Circleville New Car Dealers' Assn.

Born Feb. 28, 1911, in St. Paul, Minn., he was the son of Otto and Anna Johnson Edstrom.

Gaullists Endorse Candidate

PARIS (AP) — The Gaullist party's central committee has endorsed former Premier Jacques Chaban-Delmas' presidential candidacy.

But at least two other leading politicians — National Assembly President Edgar Faure and Finance Minister Valery Giscard d'Estaing — are expected to contend with him for the anti-Left vote.

The leftist candidate will be Socialist party chief Francois Mitterrand, who will have the backing of the Communist party and the two biggest trade unions, the Communist-aligned General Confederation of Labor and the French Democratic Labor Confederation.

The prospective split in the conservative and centrist vote made certain that a runoff election would be necessary.

The election is set for May 5. If no candidate gets a majority, a runoff between the top men will be held May 19.

Gaullist Secretary-General Alexander Sanguinetti announced on Sunday the party committee's decision to back Chaban-Delmas, 59, the mayor of Bordeaux. He noted that the party was not naming a candidate, but only supporting Chaban-Delmas.

Giscard d'Estaing, 48, whose small Independent Republican party is allied with the Gaullists, scheduled a news conference today to announce his candidacy.

Faure, 65, a two-time premier before Gen. Charles de Gaulle returned to power in 1958, reportedly refused to drop out of the race despite strong pressures from Gaullist leaders that he help rally strength behind a single candidate.

Khadafy Still Libyan Strongman

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Sources in Libya say Col. Moammar Khadafy is still the country's strongman and has only given up ceremonial duties.

Diplomatic and government sources Sunday contradicted reports circulating elsewhere in the Middle East that the controversial Khadafy had been stripped of power in the oil-rich state.

Libyans were told Sunday that Khadafy had handed over some of his duties to Premier Abdel Salam Jalloud, confirming reports first circulated Saturday. But informed sources said the move would not reduce Khadafy's power as the country's leader.

"Khadafy is still our president, he's still our leader," a spokesman for the government news agency said.

A Western diplomat in Tripoli said: "It doesn't look like Khadafy's lost any power except handing over some functions, such as meeting and greeting dignitaries, to Jalloud."

Khadafy, who has ruled Libya since seizing power in a coup four years ago, is known to be disdainful of the protocol niceties normally required of heads of state.

Ohio Northern Fire Brings Evacuation

ADA, Ohio (AP) — A fire early Sunday morning at Ohio Northern University caused some 300 women to be evacuated from a dormitory, school officials said.

The fire started in the basement lounge, officials added. There were no injuries, and the women returned to the dorm.

Concerning a deduction in Nixon's 1974 income tax, Belch noted that the gift to the government of money owed for 1969 would be deductible up to 50 per cent of Nixon's adjusted gross income. This would enable him to write off about $125,000.

"The man is entitled to the deduction," Belch said. "Whether he will elect to use it is another question. He may decide it's not wise to have a year where he doesn't pay any income tax."

World Leaders Stand Behind President Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has elevated foreign policy into a major part of its Watergate defense, maintaining that Nixon's continuation in office is considered essential by most world leaders.

The crucial role played by Nixon in insuring international progress was portrayed by high White House officials following the President's return from Paris Sunday.

Alexander M. Haig Jr., Nixon's chief of staff, said the weekend in Paris for a memorial service honoring the late French President Georges Pompidou was encouraging in several ways.

Golan Heights Fighting Worsens

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Syria shot down an Israeli jet fighter over the Golan Heights front today and the two pilots who bailed out were captured in Lebanon, the Lebanese Defense Ministry said.

Israel confirmed that the plane went down, but denied that it was hit by a missile. The Tel Aviv command said the jet caught fire, apparently as a result of a technical fault.

It was the first Israeli plane lost over the Golan front since the October war.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said the plane, an F4 Phantom, crashed in the Arkoub region near the village of Chebba, only six miles north of the Israeli border. The village is about 39 miles south of Beirut.

A Lebanese spokesman said the two pilots were picked up near the village of Kraibe, about three miles west of Chebba. He said they were safe but would not say whether they were being held.

Lebanon holds two other Israeli Phantom pilots captured during the October war when they bailed out over Lebanon.

Push Improved Twister Warnings

WASHINGTON (AP) — Weathermen running America's tornado warning system hope some planned improvements will help save more lives in future disasters.

For example, a new highspeed electronic system "that seeks to take full advantage of computers, modern display technology and modern communications technology" is being developed, says a top federal weather agency official.

The weathermen hope to begin deploying this in about 18 months to offices around the country so the whole system can react faster and more effectively to quickly developing weather situations such as tornadoes.

"It will be much more efficient than our present system and will enable a much quicker response" especially in cases such as the one last week when many tornadoes erupted at virtually the same time, an official said.

If such a modernized approach had been available last week, "it could have lengthened warning times five to 30 minutes — and in tornadoes, that could be important," another official said.

"Most natural disasters that kill people happen fast — you can't consume that time by inefficient methods

"It was very evident that European leaders and world leaders with whom the President met continued to look to the United States and President Nixon as an essential factor in...efforts to develop a structure for a stable international environment," he said.

Other officials told reporters on Nixon's plane during the return from Paris that the world leaders clearly want the President to stay in office because they feel a rapport with him.

These officials said many other international leaders also have domestic problems, although of a different character.

Because of this empathy, Nixon is down "when an enemy formation penetrated our air space over Mt. Hermon." It also said its forces battled all night with Israeli troops trying to overrun Syrian positions on Mt. Hermon, but Israel denied this.

Artillery and tank fire blazed along the 40-mile Golan front for the 28th straight day.

Israel admitted using warplanes for the first time since the October war on Saturday. It said air strikes were ordered after the Syrians attacked an Israeli position on Mt. Hermon.

The Tel Aviv command said shooting erupted again today across the Golan truce line, and Israel's military command announced the first capture of a Syrian soldier since the October war.

An Israeli spokesman said Syrian guns and tank cannon resumed firing after sunrise, and artillery duels spread along the 40-mile front. He said no Israeli casualties were reported.

Israel claims it holds 387 Syrian prisoners of war and wants to exchange them for 65 Israelis held in Syria.

which eat up the time for warning," he said.

The weathermen also are working toward gaining new satellites that could upgrade the experts' ability to forecast "and enable us to keep a continuous watch on developing weather," said the official.

Improvements also are being sought for the warning network's local-use radar system. "In what we call our local-use radar, we are using radar sets that go back to World War II. They are obsolete sets, they need replacement," the official said.

More than 300 persons died, thousands were hurt and property damage was measured in the millions of dollars as some 90 twisters tore through parts of a dozen states last week.

Robert M. White, head of the Commerce Department's National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration and other top federal officials visited Kentucky, Indiana and Ohio last Friday to look at some of the damage and to talk with local weather agency officials. White said his initial assessment is that the warning system "performed very well, the warnings were in time" for quite a few people.

admired for what they believe is his courage, and is deeply respected because they say he continues to function effectively in world matters.

The meetings described by Haig involved the chiefs of state of Japan, France, the Soviet Union, West Germany, Great Britain, Denmark and Italy.

Before returning to the United States and an overnight stay at his Camp David, Md., retreat, Nixon held two important meetings Sunday in Paris.

The first was a two-hour breakfast with Soviet President Nikolai Podgorny, at which the Nixon's June trip to Moscow was discussed.

Haig said the meeting "confirmed that both sides have set the preliminary stages for finite and real accomplishments," during the June summit.

Both sides, he said, "are very optimistic...there will be positive results in the areas of trade, technological exchanges, and certainly" in nuclear arms limitations.

But Haig refused to provide details, saying it was too early to discuss such matters in depth.

The other Sunday meeting was with Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka. According to Haig, the one-hour session with Tanaka dealt with the Japanese relationship to the United States and the Atlantic Alliance.

Cool Air, Rain Areas Cover U.S.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Cool air washed down from the north into the Gulf Coast region today.

Northerly winds that gusted to up to 30 miles per hour were reported from Kansas to Texas, where skies remained clear.

Rain and showers, however, extended from Kansas and northern Oklahoma into the Ohio Valley, while snow fell from northern Ohio into New York State and northern New England.

An inch of snow accumulated during the night at Birmingham, Rome and Utica in New York and at Erie, Pa.

Skies cleared over the upper Great Lakes, but temperatures dropped considerably below normal levels for early April.

Meanwhile, scattered thunderstorms spread into the central Gulf coast states after causing wind damage to areas along the Arkansas-Tennessee border.

Rain also moved into the Northwest as another Pacific storm approached the coast.

Pope Urges Youth To Abandon Protest Forms

VATICAN CITY (AP) — Pope Paul VI has urged Roman Catholic youth to abandon fashionable forms of protest and, instead, support "some militant organization in the fields of action, piety or charity."

The pontiff, in a Palm Sunday rite in St. Peter's Basilica, also urged Catholic youth "not to be ashamed and run away when showing ourselves to be Christian makes others despise us."

The 76-year-old Pope spoke in a firm voice from his papal throne and looked well after two bouts of illness last month.

After the ceremony in the basilica, the Pope went to his apartment in the Vatican's Apostolic Palace and from a window blessed a crowd of 30,000 gathered in St. Peter's Square.

to examine White House tapes has reaffirmed its original conclusion that a tape with a controversial 11½-minute gap had been erased deliberately.

The magazine said the panel's decision followed "new and exhaustive" tests on the tape.

—Two Washington Post reporters who pieced together major Watergate stories say a major information source for them was Hugh W. Sloan Jr., one-time treasurer of the Nixon's re-election committee.

Sloan's role was described by Bob Woodward and Carl Bernstein in excerpts from a forthcoming book printed in Playboy magazine.

Woodward and Bernstein said they first learned from Sloan the names of several key controllers of a secret GOP fund for financing campaign activities against the Democrats.

IRS May Probe Fraud On Nixon Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP) — The head of the Internal Revenue Service has indicated that the IRS still may be investigating whether the preparation of President Nixon's tax returns for recent years involved fraud.

IRS Commissioner Donald C. Alexander confirmed Sunday a White House statement that no basis had been found for bringing such a charge against Nixon personally.

But when asked if charges might be leveled against those who helped prepare the tax returns, Alexander responded during a televised interview: "I can't comment on what action the IRS and others may be or may not be taking with respect to others."

The White House announced last week that President Nixon would pay the full IRS-stipulated total of $432,787.13 in unpaid taxes, plus interest, for the years 1969-72.

In Los Angeles, Nixon's tax lawyer Arthur Blech said that the President would be entitled to a deduction of about $125,000 for the year in which he pays the 1969 taxes. Blech said Nixon is legally obligated to pay the money because the statute of limitations has run out for that tax year. When paid, it could be considered a charitable contribution.

Alexander, interviewed on CBS's "Face the Nation," said it is possible but "I think it's quite unlikely" that the President may not have to pay any income tax for 1974 because of various deductions, including half of the some $32,000 in interest due on his back taxes payment.

Alexander was questioned about reports the White House had been sent information on particular tax returns. He confirmed that "certain sensitive case reports...were apparently forwarded to the White House."

But he said "there was no continuing pattern" and added that he has not sent out any such reports since becoming IRS chief.

Concerning a deduction in Nixon's 1974 income tax, Belch noted that the gift to the government of money owed for 1969 would be deductible up to 50 per cent of Nixon's adjusted gross income. This would enable him to write off about $125,000.

"The man is entitled to the deduction," Blech said. "Whether he will elect to use it is another question. He may decide it's not wise to have a year where he doesn't pay any income tax."

Blech said the IRS is allowing Nixon an extension on filing his 1973 tax turn because the return must be reworked following the IRS ruling on the back taxes.

Alexander was questioned about the $100,000 Hughes contribution following published reports indicating former Nixon attorney Herbert G. Kalmbach had testified privately that C.G. "Bebe" Rebozo told him in confidence Rebozo had passed on portions of the money to the Nixon brothers and Miss Rose Mary Woods.

Rebozo previously has said he kept the entire amount locked up for three years before returning it to the Hughes organization.

CBS newsman Daniel Schorr said he had learned the IRS became aware of the Hughes contribution more than two years ago, that Rebozo was questioned about it in April 1973 and that the investigating agent concluded then that Rebozo's account was truthful.

Alexander refused to comment. In other developments:

—House Minority Leader John B. Rhodes, R-Ariz., said he believes Nixon was not treated "with even-handed justice" on the tax issue before the congressional panel issued a staff report last week. He said the President's attorneys should have been allowed a chance to argue against the findings.

—The panel, the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, found that Nixon incorrectly took a $70,000 tax deduction for giving papers to the government in 1968, but he apparently won't have to pay additional taxes for it.

—Newsweek magazine disclosed today that the panel of experts chosen

NEW YORK (AP) — Surging interest rates dealt another body blow to the stock market today.

The noon Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 7.90 at 839.64, and declines overpowered advances by 4 to 1 in light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Bankers Trust Co. of New York raised its prime lending rate today from 9½ to 10 per cent, and other banks across the nation were expected to adopt 10 per cent rates soon.

"When you have equities competing with high-interest debt issues, it's bound to work to the disadvantage of equities," said Jack Salomon at Thomson & McKinnon Auchincloss Kohlmeier Inc.

First mortgage investors was the Big Board's most-active stock, down ½ at 5¼. Last week Moody's Investors service withdrew its rating on the real estate investment trust's commercial paper.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was down .79 at 95.12.

Day Of Mourning For Kentucky Town

BRANDENBURG, Ky. (AP) — Cleanup operations were to resume today in this tornado-stricken Ohio River community, where residents paused Sunday to gather in a school gymnasium to honor the dead.

The process of digging through the rubble had continued most of Sunday also, despite the official declaration of the day of mourning for 30 who lost their lives when the tornado ripped through the Meade County community last Wednesday.

County Judge James Greer said all cleanup work halted briefly at 2 p.m.—the hour at which 1,800 gathered on bleachers at the Meade County High School gymnasium for the interdenominational funeral service.

Earlier in the day friends and relatives filed across the gym's canvas-covered floor to pay tribute at the 14 coffins that remained. Some victims had been buried earlier; others will be buried this week. One coffin held a mother and child.

All were honored in the ceremony conducted by a group of ministers representing the Nazarene, Baptist, Methodist and Catholic faiths, who read a brief obituary for each of the dead. "Larry Edward Jupin. Born July 19, 1963. He is survived by..."

At one point the electricity failed. A stillness came over the gathering and the organist softly played "Faith of Our Fathers." The service resumed minutes later.

Flowers decked the coffins and the makeshift funeral parlor bore little resemblance to a gymnasium—except for the basketball goals raised high above the floor, scoreboards and the classroom-type chairs used to support the rope that cordoned off a seating section for immediate families of the victims.

A chaplain from nearby Ft. Knox read the list of dead. "The roll of the honored dead. Peggy Williams..."

The single service for the community's victims was set after local ministers and officials agreed a succession of services and funeral processions would add to the community's misery.

"It would have prolonged the thing," said Greer. "And it would be agonizing."

Greer said the effect of the single ceremony was to "focus everybody's attention on the tragedy that we have had. A loss like that is pretty significant. We're a small community."

Sheriff, Commissioners Discuss Disaster Planning

Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff discussed disaster planning with Commissioners today after viewing the problems Xenia and Greene County are experiencing.

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department is assisting Greene County and Xenia authorities with law enforcement. Sheriff Radcliff noted off-duty deputies have been going to the area daily.

County Commissioner Dick T. Tootle flew over the disaster area with Dr. Ray Carroll.

"There is no way we can prepare for what happened there," Tootle said. But he agreed with the sheriff that disaster planning is necessary.

In other business today commissioners Tootle, L. Robert Liston and Wayne Hines discussed acquiring a mobile education facility with the Pickaway County extension Advisory Council.

Representing the council were: George Hamrick, county agricultural agent; Ernest (Bud) Enoch, Vaughn Dresbach and Bill Walker.

They suggested the purchase of a trailer, 8 by 24 feet in size, to be used as a mobile office and educational facility that could be used by county government and local civic organizations especially in the outlying areas of the county.

Hamrick said the mobile office was first suggested to him by the state resource development agent and that he will arrange a meeting with the agent and county commissioners so the advantages and disadvantages can be studied more thoroughly.

A Page Of Opinion

Mail Progress Canceled

Investigators for the General Accounting Office have given Congress the facts of life on the United States Postal Service. Mail delivery and other postal services deteriorated during 1972 and early 1973, the GAO reported, as a direct result of efforts to make the postal system pay for itself.

Economies put into effect during that period, including an 8 per cent reduction in the work force, did accomplish a smaller operating deficit, temporarily, but they also caused a noticeable deterioration in services.

And, the GAO adds, if revenues ever are to cover costs it will be necessary to speed up mechanization efforts because operating costs are continuing to increase, especially labor outlays. Labor costs, the GAO report added, are rising faster than productivity.

"Although productivity remained virtually constant from 1956 through 1967," said the report, the average postal salary increased almost 60 per cent."

In short, the concept of putting the Postal Service on a paying basis has a long way to go—about as far as the Penn Central Railroad.

Driving Was An Adventure

ON THE LINE
By BOB CONSIDINE

NEW YORK — Man and boy, there was a long period in American motoring when the dream of every red-blooded father was to crank up his Model T or Chevrolet Coupe (or his Velie, Reo Flying Cloud, Moon, Overland, Mercer or Rickenbacker) and honk off to Lake Fudge with the happy wife and kids. It was an adventure to picnic or camp amid the bees, birds and villainous insects. Gas was a dime a gallon, and a wicker basket of goodies cost five bucks, if that.

Today, that doting father would be booted off the road if he undertook such a gentle act of togetherness. Neighbors would gossip that he probably had bribed the corner gas station manager. Or the FBI might be alerted to tap his phone to see if he had a hot line to Col. Muammar el-Qaddafi. It's another and tenser age. Nobody cries "Happy motoring!" any more. It's hard for motoring to be happy in a time when gas is about as expensive as toilet water and owners of big cars get dirty looks instead of envious stares. Besides, most of the roadside picnic sites are now occupied by hamburger joints.

A good rundown on "then" as opposed to "now" in innocent motor travel may be found in the Golden Anniversary reprint of Rand McNally's Auto Road Atlas.

Half a century ago the motorist, hardly out of his cocoon of linen duster, cap and goggles, had only 184,000 miles of national highways to contend with. (Now the figure is 4,000,000 miles.) The driver of old, about to embark on a camping trip, was advised by Messrs. Rand and McNally to gird himself and his machine as if he were about to go to war, or to the moon.

"Look over the tool box and see that it contains the necessary wrenches, such as open end wrenches, an adjustable (or monkey) wrench, a Stillson wrench and a spark plug sock wrench," he was advised.

"Also a pair of pliers, chain-repair pliers, a mechanic's hammer, large and small screwdriver, files, a spool of soft iron wire, a box each of assorted nuts, bolts and cotterpins, a box of extra tire valves, a tire pressure gauge, some extra spark plugs and rim lugs, a box of talcum powder, a few feet of high and low tension cable, a roll of tape, an extra valve and spring, a grease gun, an extra fan belt, a sheet of cork for emergency gaskets and a small bottle of shellac."

Rand and McNally were just getting warmed up:

"Begin the journey with tires in good condition and with two extras (with covers), preferably inflated on rims; three extra tubes, carefully rolled and packed in burlap to keep from chafing, a tube-patching outfit for punctures and a blow-out patch or inner boot. Carry a tire pump and a good jack, also a small piece of plank, 2x8x18 inches, to use as a base for the jack in soft ground. Tire chains are necessary equipment. Carry a rope for towing, a collapsible bucket, one upper and one lower rubber hose connection for radiator, box of cup grease, a spout oil can and a can of extra lubricating oil. Use talcum powder when inserting tubes in casing but do not use too much.

"To carry camp equipment on the running board, have a folding parcel carrier. Webbing straps may also be screwed to the tonneau floor to be used for strapping down baggage to keep it from shifting and annoying the passengers. See that the car is in good working order and all parts well-lubricated before starting on the tour and that the battery is full charged. Have the top in good shape. Number the side curtains to facilitate quick attachment in a sudden storm."

Neither Rand nor McNally trusted the elements one little bit in those otherwise good old carefree days. Example:

"To keep your windshield clear of mist on rainy days, rub a sliced onion over the glass, with an up and down motion. This will be found to be an admirable protection against rain obscuring the vision, but it is not as well adapted to falling snow, as the snow seems to adhere to the glass if the car is running fast. Be sure to coat the entire surface of the glass with the juice of the onion.

"Pure vinegar will clean celluloid windows in the curtains of your car. Butter, oleomargarine or cocoanut butter are excellent for softening road tar for easy removal from fenders . . . Use your watch for a compass.

If the sun shines, point the hour hand to the sun. Half-way between the hour hand and twelve o'clock is south. On cloudy days, the general north direction may be determined by the fact that the bark of trees is rougher and thicker on the north side while the limbs are longer on the south side. Pine trees generally lean slightly to the north. A few postal cards are much more practical to take along than postage stamps, which will gum together when damp. To dry out the inside of wet boots or shoes, put a few pebbles, previously heated in a frying pan over the camp fire, into them. To make a fire without matches, scrape a fine lint from a piece of cotton cloth. On this focus the sun through the crystal of a watch or the lens of a pair of spectacles and the lint will soon start to glow. Blow this into flame."

Finally, there were some beautiful do's and don'ts the proper driver of that era was urged to observe: "Women drivers of motor vehicles should be given special consideration — and watching . . . Roads were made to travel on — not to burn up . . . It takes gas to propel a motor vehicle — not profanity." And, prophetically "Share your gas with the man who is stranded far from a filling station."

Makes you want to turn in your keys.

Energy Pinch To Cut Farm Sales

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world energy situation may cause some countries to reduce purchases of U.S. farm products over the next year, the Agriculture Department said today.

But for now, USDA experts said, farm exports in the fiscal year beginning July 1 still are expected to be worth $17 billion to $19 billion. That estimate was announced several months ago and would be second only to the record $20 billion worth of farm commodities sold abroad this fiscal year.

The latest analysis was made in a series of reports published by the department's Foreign Agricultural Service in "Foreign Agriculture," a weekly circular.

"Shortages and sudden price increases for energy that surprised the world last October have jolted agricultural production and trade at almost every level," Reed E. Friend, one USDA specialist wrote.

"Paralleling the situation at the farm level, where fuels and fertilizer are scarce and costly, political and economic repercussions are under way that could significantly alter present world trading patterns and growth trends," Friend said.

The task of estimating what might occur is so difficult, Friend indicated, that the energy crunch actually might keep global demand for U.S. farm products at a high level in the coming months.

For example, he said, some countries might step-up imports of feed grains, soybeans and other animal feed in order to increase self-sufficiency in livestock products.

But Friend said it was also possible that U.S. farm exports might be reduced as some countries experience sharp slowdowns in economic growth and reductions in consumer income.

"The changing value of the dollar — caused by the relatively low dependency of the United States on petroleum imports — has made U.S. goods, somewhat more expensive on international markets," Friend said.

Another specialist, Spencer F. England, said a rise of 170 per cent in world oil prices since last fall "probably will not cause most developed countries to restrict imports of U.S. farm products this year" to solve balance-of-payments problems.

"But a small number of U.S. farm markets . . . will be hardpressed to maintain currency reserves and could initiate measures to restrict farm imports," England said. That possibility exists in a few richer or "developed" countries and in many poorer "developing" nations, he said.

The richer countries most able to cope with high oil prices — and thus be in position to continue buying U.S. farm products — include Australia, Austria, Canada, West Germany, the Netherlands, Spain and Switzerland, England said. Those countries bought 23.5 per cent of U.S. farm exports last calendar year.

Also, England said, another group — including Belgium, Luxembourg, France, Ireland, Japan, Norway and Sweden — will "find it difficult" to meet balance-of-payment deficits but are not likely to cut farm imports. Those took 21.8 per cent of U.S. shipments in 1973.

Election Workers Sue Over Loss Of Jobs

MANSFIELD, Ohio (AP)— Seventy-four election workers have filed a suit in Richland County Common Pleas Court to reverse their firing by the county board of elections.

The board said it released workers over the age of 70 because they're too slow in handling their duties. The 74 said they can't be removed unless the board proves neglect of duties, malfeasance or misconduct.

A hearing has been set for April 9 on the suit.

The commonest speech sound is the vowel a (as in the English father); no language is known to be without it.

John M. Kirwin observed 50 years as an employee of the railroad. He had gone from baggage master to handling freight on the platform to being made cashier, a position he had held since 1903. His father, one of the early Irish settlers in Circleville, had helped build the old C. & M. V.

Mr. and Mrs. John T. Davis of Five Points celebrated their 53 wedding anniversary at a family dinner hosted by their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Heiskell of William-sport.

New regulations by directors of Pickaway County Agricultural Society stated that all eating establishments in the city would be requested to serve only one kind of pie—namely pumpkin—during the annual festival. Other regulations established were that the sale of space to eating stands would be limited to residents and organizations of Circleville and Pickaway County. Contracts would include the provision that the operators of eating stands purchase local products.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Letters are beginning to pour in about ovarian cysts. It is interesting that as soon as a particular condition is reported involving a prominent person, interest associated with anxiety begins to mount.

Ovaries are two oval-shaped glands about the size of small plums. They lie in the pelvis, or lower abdomen, on each side of the uterus.

The function of the ovaries is to produce the ovum, or egg which, when fertilized by the male sperm, begins the process of pregnancy and the development of the child.

The ovaries also produce two important highly specialized hormones. One, the estrogenic hormone is involved in the growth and maturation of the female. The second hormone, progesterone, in combination with estrogen, prepares the lining of the womb for the nourishment and growth of the fertilized egg.

Under normal circumstances, when the egg leaves the ovary each month, a small cyst remains. This quickly shrinks and disappears.

Occasionally, a large cyst develops and many grow to considerable size. Sometimes they cause no symptoms at all. At other times, ovarian cysts may become twisted and give symptoms that closely resemble an attack of appendicitis.

When a cyst of the ovary becomes complicated, surgery is necessary and often involves the removal of the ovary itself.

It is important to know that women with one healthy ovary can produce the egg, or ovum, and the hormones necessary for normal pregnancy.

There is no reason why young women should be spurred into a level of anxiety about a condition, although highly publicized, which is relatively rare.

I sit at my desk as a typist for eight hours a day. I get up stiff as a board and can barely drag myself home.

Are there any special exercises I can take during my coffee and lunch breaks?

Miss V. L., Del.

Dear Miss L.
There are a great many types of isometric exercises, push-ups and push-aways that are effective in limbering the muscles.

No one should stay in one position for more than an hour. This applies to people at work and to those who drive long distances in automobiles.

Only a few moments are necessary to revitalize the blood circulation by briskly walking around.

There is the possibility that some other underlying cause may be present in your case. This should be checked by your doctor.

The Sporting Life

By JIM BISHOP

Sports in this country fall into three categories: spectator, participant and spectator-participant. I entertain a wry and often critical affection for all of them. Here, for your edification and mine, is a glossary of my feelings about the more popular sports.

AUTOMOBILE RACING: The ultimate test of the internal-combustion engine. A hundred-thousand people bring lunches and pay to see one-or-more drivers broiled to death in flaming wreckage.

TENNIS: The fat man's shortcut to a myocardial infarction. The game is swift and anticipatory in character. The notion is to hit a furry ball over a net within baselines. It is the only game in which, if someone points at you and says, "Love," you're a loser.

GOLF: Old man's orgy. The player uses 14 poorly designed weapons to hit a small, white ball into a hole faraway. It is the only game in which the player must keep his head down and is not permitted to see what he is doing. Scotland's revenge on the British Empire.

BASEBALL: A slow, solemn effort by 18 players to keep each other from crossing a plate which isn't a plate. Professionally, it is played by semi-millionaires who hate it.

HOCKEY: Well-padded madmen steer a round puck on ice toward a goal too small, guarded by a goalie too large. Excitement occurs only when two players flog each other insensate with sticks.

SOCCER: A minor sport using a round, inflated ball which is caromed off toe and head toward a goal. The game is a legacy of a major sport in Europe, with variants called rugby and football, in which thousands of spectators wait patiently until the game is over before rushing on the field to dismember the umpire.

BOXING: Two athletes in a 24-foot enclosure armed with leather mittens. The object is to hit one's adversary more frequently. The result is judged by three well-dressed cowards who are paid for watching from a safe distance, some of whom own Seeing-Eye dogs.

BOWLING: An effort to tumble 10 triangulated wooden pins with a big, hard ball thrown down something called an alley. The game is to beer drinkers what a beauty parlor is to a mother—three hours out of the house. Sadly, most bowlers cannot score their weight.

JAI ALAI: Spanish handball. The only game in which the animals can read the odds on the tote board. In America, a lightning-fast sport confinned mostly to Florida. Tourists find it difficult to get a winning bet on 28 players who take a bath together.

HORSE RACING: An assortment of well-bred quadrupeds who run at top speed because they are afraid of a pygmy on their backs armed with a bat. The imbecilic mentality of the horse never permits him to understand that the reward for winning is the same as losing—a bag of oats.

HURLING: Legalized murder confined to Ireland. Players on opposing teams are armed with heavy sticks and try to hit a soft, leather sphere into a goal net. The Irish spurn helmets and bring the stick down smartly on each other's heads. Most games are played as benefits to pay hospital bills for last week's players.

DOG RACING: Fleet greyhounds chase an electrified rabbit. People bet which dog will come closest to not catching the rabbit. Outdoor bingo.

WRESTLING: Two fat men taking turns lying on top of each other. This sport arouses base instincts in women. A game for muscled dimwits who flunk courses in acting.

FOOTBALL: In its professional aspects, 11 wealthy young men trying to move a leather ellipsoid 10 yards in four attempts. In school, 11 poor young men doing the same thing, hoping to become rich. Both are watched by an average of 60,000 team managers, each of whom calls the right play immediately after the quarterback calls the wrong one.

BASKETBALL: A high-scoring game involving two hoops and 10 hyperthyroid hoopers. It has two main elements: dribbling and fouls. The only sport which can be won or lost by less than one-half of one per cent of the total score.

HUNTING: The armed invading the home of the unarmed with murderous intent.

FISHING: Patient people in boats trying to outwit piscatorial creatures who were born with an atavistic suspicion of free meals.

FIGURE SKATING: Delicate designs on ice. Also, a student's letter to dad explaining how he went broke before the next remittance was due.

I would have included lacrosse, but I thought it was a dressing for a cut or abrasion. Me, I love sports . . .

The longest word in the Oxford English Dictionary is floccipaucinihilipilification, with 29 letters, meaning "the action of estimating as worthless," first used in 1741.

Boss Should Specify

DEAR ABBY: The other day you published a letter from a secretary who professed to like her job and her boss, but she complained about being sent on non-clerical errands, such as picking up other employees or shopping for the boss, too often. This wasn't part of the job, she said, and she resented doing it.

And yet it would seem to me that if the boss sends her on these errands, and she does it on company time, then they are, indeed, a part of the job and she does not have a legitimate complaint. I could see her gripe if she were expected to do all these things on her own time, but this apparently wasn't the case. The problem is simply that she thinks she's being paid for her typing, and the boss thinks she's being paid for her time. I tend to agree with the boss. So long as he is footing the bill, what does it matter whether the secretary is taking dictation or doing the boss' legwork?

MS. JONES

DEAR MS. J.: When one advertises for a typist, if "legwork" is part of the job, the applicants should be so advised. An employer does not buy "time" he buys "talent, muscle, or specialized skill." A woman hired to do secretarial work shouldn't be expected to sit with the kiddies any more than a man hired to sell real estate should be expected to wax floors.

DEAR ABBY: I saw you on a talk show recently, and you were asked: At what age do you think children should be told the facts of life? You replied, "When they're old enough to ask they're old enough to know."

I agree with you. I'm with Planned Parenthood, and this morning we heard from a group of angry mothers in one school district who are fuming about our weeklong educational

Nolan Claims Court Ruling Was Incorrect

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—James D. Nolan, a Democratic candidate for governor, said the Ohio Supreme Court did not read the law carefully when it ruled on Gov. John J. Gilligan's nominating petitions.

Thursday the court dismissed Nolan's suit charging that Gilligan could not file his petitions with a Cincinnati address.

"We pointed out to the Supreme Court that Gilligan had sold the house on Jan. 15, 1971—over three years ago," Nolan said Monday. "We were not contesting Mr. Gilligan's right to vote from that address, although highly dubious, but his affirming, under oath that the Taft Avenue address was in fact his true and legal post office address."

Nolan is Gilligan's only challenger in the Democratic primary.

Ehrlichman Trial Delayed To May 20

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman has been granted a postponement in his perjury trial because of delays in getting transcripts of Watergate grand jury proceedings.

Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer Friday postponed the trial until May 20 after Ehrlichman's attorney argued that he had not yet received transcripts of testimony given to the grand jury in Washington by two of Ehrlichman's former aides, David Young and Egil "Bud" Krogh Jr.

Job Bureau Given New Image

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The "stodgy, bureaucratic" state Bureau of Employment Services has changed its name to Ohio Job Services to improve its image.

"When you say Ohio Bureau of Employment Services, you say a mouthful," said Stan Wyman, agency spokesman. "When you say Ohio Job Services, it tells the whole story."

"We're dealing with jobs and people. The effect, we hope, will be positive identification."

Because of the imposing name, Wyman said many Ohioans considered the bureau "stodgy and bureaucratic, and we agree with them."

He said the federal government "came up with the idea of the name 'job services.' What we have done is taken their idea and adopted to our use."

The bureau has used the name along with the Ohio state flag on new red, white and blue signs, which have been going up in the three major metropolitan areas.

"We are replacing the signs as needed," Wyman said. "We haven't gone out and ordered a million, zillion signs. As the signs break or have to be replaced, we are ordering on that basis."

The signs, which cost about $150 installed, first went up at the bureau's seven new neighborhood offices in Cleveland, Columbus and Cincinnati. Three more offices are planned, including one in Medina.

The new signs coupled with the neighborhood offices are an attempt to reach the people on the street, Wyman said. "When a guy on the street sees our sign and symbol, he knows what it's all about," he added.

Wyman said, "If a guy is looking for a job, he knows to come to us. If he's looking for employees, he knows to come to us. We think it's a hell of a good concept."

He said the bureau through its 120 offices in 79 counties placed 211,999 persons last year. The figure

Circleville, Teays Valley Divide Doubleheader

Circleville and Teays Valley split a doubleheader on a cold, windy Red and Black diamond Saturday afternoon. The Vikings copped the opener, 7-4, while the Tigers captured the nightcap, 8-3.

The Vikings erupted for five big runs in the seventh inning of the opener to overcome a 3-2 Circleville lead and gain the win. The big blow in the frame was a double by Terry Southerns to plate two Viking runners.

Teays Valley tallied single runs in the first and second frames to jump out to a 2-0 lead but the Tigers battled back with a pair of runs in the bottom of the third to even the count.

Circleville plated the go-ahead run in the bottom of the fifth and tallied a single marker in the bottom of the seventh.

Jeff Anderson was on the hill all the way for the Vikings. He gave up 11 hits, walked three and fanned four.

Randy Thomas opened on the mound for Circleville with Phil Roll coming on in the late stages of the game. Thomas was tapped for one hit and the Vikings got to Roll for five safeties. Roll was the losing pitcher. They gave up a total of nine walks while striking out five.

Southerns led the Viking attack with a double and single, Terry Lambert rapped a pair of singles while Bruce Haines and Norm McPherson each had a one-bagger.

Pat McNaughton carried the big lumber for Circleville with a double and two singles, Randy Thomas cracked a double and single, Biff Bumgarner slammed a two-bagger, Rock Davis ripped a pair of singles while Perry Hoskins, Phil Roll and Mark Scherer each added a single.

Circleville reversed the action in the nightcap when the Tigers exploded for five runs in the bottom of the fifth. Bumgarner delivered the big hit in the inning when he slammed a double to send two runners across the plate.

The Vikings took the lead with a single run in the second but the Tigers jumped in front with two markers in the bottom of the third.

Teays Valley regained the lead with a pair of runs in the fourth but the Tigers came up with a big fifth frame and capped the scoring with a single tally in the sixth.

Hoskins and Brent Mancini shared mound duties for Circleville. They gave up a total of nine hits, four walks and struck out eight. Mancini gained the win.

McPherson and Mark Messick were on the hill for the Vikings. They allowed a total of nine hits, four walks and fanned four. McPherson was charged with the loss.

Mark Mace cracked a pair of doubles to lead the Tiger attack, Bumgarner had a double and single while Davis, Thomas, Tim McNaughton, Scherer and Mancini each rapped a single.

Lambert and McPherson each slashed two singles to pace the Vikings while Southerns, Chuck Glitt, Booth, Rusty Rathburn and Messick each had a one-bagger.

Circleville is now 1-1 on the season and is slated to host Miami Trace today. Teays Valley is 2-1 and is scheduled to meet Dublin today on the Viking diamond.

FIRST PITCH — Randy Thomas delivers the first pitch of the season for the Circleville Tigers in a doubleheader with Teays Valley Saturday. The hitter is Terry Lambert and Jeff See in behind the plate for the Tigers.

SAFE AT HOME — The Circleville runner beats the throw to the plate to score the Tigers second run. Steve Williams, Teays Valley catcher, waits for the ball as the Viking pitcher, Jeff Anderson, watches the action.

Whalers Top Cougars In WHA Tilt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If ever a man was in the right place at the right time, it was the New England Whaler's John French.

"I was trying to set up a screen and I thought Mike Byers was going to move in for a closer shot," recalled French after the Whalers had scored a 4-3 overtime victory over the Chicago Cougars Sunday in their World Hockey Association Easter Division playoff series. "However, he let it go from the top of the faceoff circle and the puck simply struck my skate and bounced in for the game winner."

"I didn't have much to do with tonight's game winner, but I'll be happy to take it."

The victory gave the Whalers a 2-0 edge in the best-of-seven series.

In other Sunday WHA playoff action, the Minnesota Fighting Saints downed the Edmonton Oilers 8-5 and the Toronto Toros blanked the Cleveland Crusaders 4-0.

In playoff action Saturday, New England beat Chicago 6-4 and Minnesota downed Edmonton 2-1.

Chicago goal-tender Andre Gill made 33 saves and New England's Al Smith made 34.

The series shifts to Chicago for the third and fourth games Tuesday and Wednesday nights.

Yanks Bomb Cleveland

NEW YORK (AP) — As far as the New York Yankees are concerned, Yankee Stadium doesn't ever have to be rebuilt. The team has a two-year lease at Shea Stadium, home of the New York Mets, and the players just might petition for a longer stay if things keep going their way.

"This is a nice, fair park and you can see the ball much better here than at Yankee Stadium," said Thurman Munson who hit a 400-foot home run in Sunday's 7-1 victory over the Cleveland Indians.

"I like to hit here better than in Yankee Stadium," said Graig Nettles, who homered in Saturday's 6-1 opening day triumph. Neither ball would have been a homer in Yankee Stadium's famed Death Valley.

"I like to pitch here much better; I never liked to pitch in Yankee Stadium," said Pat Dobson, who limited Cleveland to five hits Sunday.

Nettles' home run Saturday sailed over the 371-foot mark in left center while Munson's Sunday shot departed in right-center between the 396 and 410 signs.

"It was always nice to play in a fair park on the road," said Munson, "and this feels like a road park. If you hit the ball, it's gonna go. In Yankee Stadium, the background was bad because of the court house behind the centerfield bleachers and the shadows that used to sneak on you around the fifth inning."

Oakland Defeats Rangers

By FRANK BROWN

AP Sports Writer

Reggie Jackson won't be able to hit in Texas again until August 6.

But if the Oakland A's could play there all the time and add one Rangers' player to their lineup, Jackson says the American League West title would nearly be wrapped up by then.

The outspoken A's outfielder bid a fond farewell to Arlington Stadium with his second and third home runs of the season and seven runs batted in Oakland's 8-4 triumph over the Rangers.

He finished the American League baseball season's opening series with seven hits in 13 at bats, eight runs batted in, two doubles and a .538 batting average.

Jackson could well have added to those impressive statistics had Ferguson Jenkins not one-hit the A's Saturday night.

"If we had him on our staff," said Jackson, "we could all go home by Aug. 15."

In other American League games Sunday, the California Angels and Chicago White Sox were tied 4-4 after 10 innings when snow postponed their contest; the New York Yankees bombed the Cleveland Indians 7-1; the Baltimore Orioles and Detroit Tigers split a doubleheader—the Orioles won the opener 5-1 and the Tigers took the second 8-4 in 10 innings.

The Boston Red Sox at Milwaukee Brewers game was rained out, as was the Minnesota Twins-Kansas City Royals contest.

"I've never had a start like this before—ever," said Jackson, the Most Valuable Player during the 1973 regular season and World Series. "Normally, I get off slow."

Angels 4, White Sox 4

Snow began falling during the eighth inning and led to the postponement of the California-Chicago game after 10 innings of play. The entire game will be replayed at a date to be determined, but all records of Sunday's contest will be counted toward the final statistics.

The Angels had a 4-1 lead after seven innings, but Chicago scored twice in the eighth and tied it in the ninth on Ken Henderson's double and Carlos May's single.

The White Sox might have won the game in the ninth, but a perfect throw from Joe Lahoud cut down Bill Melton at the plate.

Yankees 7, Indians 1

Pat Dobson pitched a five-hitter and Thurman Munson homered to spark the Yankees' triumph over the Indians.

Dobson surrendered the Cleveland run before he got anyone out in the first inning, but allowed just three hits the rest of the way.

Roy White tripled and scored on an infield out, then Munson homered to put New York in front for good.

The Yanks added a run in the third, made it 4-1 in the fifth, and added three runs in the eighth—two on Jim Mason's single.

Orioles 5-4, Tigers 1-8

Ron Cash slapped the 10th inning which broke a 4-4 tie and Ed Brinkman added a two-run single later in the inning to help Detroit defeat the Orioles in the second game of the doubleheader.

Ross Grimsley, staked to a five-run lead in the first inning, held the Tigers scoreless until the ninth on the way to victory in the first game.

"I felt they knew the game was over early," said Milwaukee's Jon McGlocklin after the Bucks walloped Los Angeles 114-92 and eliminated the Lakers from the National Basketball Association playoffs.

It was a sad and sombre observation about the once-powerful Lakers, who only last season had reached the final series before losing to the New York Knicks in five games.

Their loss to the Bucks Sunday night at Milwaukee made them the first team to be ousted from the playoffs this season, losing the scheduled best-of-seven Western Conference series 4-1. The victory moved the Bucks into the West final against the winner of the Chicago-Detroit series, tied at 2-2 following the Pistons' 102-87 triumph Sunday night.

In the other NBA playoff game Sunday, the New York Knicks edged the Capital Bullets 106-105 for a 3-2 lead in their Eastern Conference semifinal series.

The other East series, between the Boston Celtics and Buffalo Braves, tied at 2-2, resumes Tuesday night at Boston.

In the only ABA playoff game Sunday, the New York Nets trounced the Virginia Squires 116-88 for a 3-1 lead in their East Division semifinal.

The Kentucky Colonels, leading Carolina 3-0 in the other ABA East pairing, can clinch the series tonight with a victory over the beleaguered Cougars at Lexington, Ky. In the West, the Utah Stars, leading the Conquistadors 3-2, can advance to the final with a triumph at San Diego tonight, and the Indiana Pacers, with a 3-2 advantage over the Spurs, can end their series in San Antonio Wednesday

Florists flourish in the

Braves Top Reds; Hank Flops

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

Al Downing of Los Angeles must have only one thought tumbling around in his brain:

Getting past Bad Henry.

Tonight, in front of thousands of frenzied fans in Atlanta and millions more stationed in front of television sets across the nation, Downing and the Dodgers will have that goal in mind.

Henry Aaron was bad, indeed, on Sunday, striking out twice like any mortal baseball player and grounding out meekly in his only other at-bat.

Perhaps Clay Kirby's pitches were that good—or perhaps Aaron was just succumbing to the pressure of being forced to start for Atlanta Sunday against the Cincinnati Reds, a game won 5-3 by the Braves on Darrell

Evans' three-run homer.

In Sunday's other National League games, the New York Mets pounded Philadelphia 9-2, San Francisco belted Houston 8-4 and Los Angeles walloped San Diego 9-2. Snow kayoed the Chicago Cubs' doubleheader at Montreal and rain postponed Pittsburgh's game at St. Louis.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn issued the order that Aaron start on Sunday. Kuhn had "suggested" that Aaron start in Thursday's season opener and Aaron's first swing became homer No. 714, tying Babe Ruth's career record. He sat out Saturday and was going to do the same Sunday, just to make sure he didn't rob Atlanta fans of No. 715 as well.

Then Kuhn made his own ground rules, ordering Brave Manager Eddie Mathews to include Hank's name on his lineup card.

"I don't want to get involved," the soft-spoken slugger said.

Downing, commenting on all the ballyhoo which will accompany every Aaron appearance at the plate, said: "I don't think any pitcher can disregard the surroundings. I'll be aware of it. I'll probably even be thrilled by it. But I'm also aware of what I have to do."

Kirby, an off-season acquisition from San Diego making his debut with the Reds, felt exactly the same way Sunday.

"I just said to myself, 'Gotta get him out,'" and he did, avoiding the notoriety which would have made him "an instant star for doing something bad...I just happened to make good pitches to him." Then he added,

Pro Cagers Overpaid, Imhoff Says

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "Pro basketball players are the highest paid athletes in the world," says Darrall Imhoff, who retired from the sport two years ago. "But I'll say at the outset, we're not worth it."

Imhoff spent 12 years in the National Basketball Association and now is a businessman in Portland, where he finished his NBA career. He spoke Sunday at a special conference on the role of sports in society.

"We're so overpaid it's ridiculous," Imhoff said, adding it wasn't that way when he joined the NBA and received a starting salary of about $12,000 a year.

Competitive bidding between professional leagues drives the price up, which is why some players now get $2 million or $3 million to sign a contract, he said.

"But people who make a lot of money aren't satisfied with life," he said. "It doesn't buy happiness. I know. I've been in the locker rooms with these men. You haven't."

Imhoff, representing the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, said that up until five years ago he was "a pleasure seeker, made a lot of money, wanted to have two cars, a boat and so forth... Any of us pro athletes can live a Joe Namath life."

"But Namath and all those like him are what's wrong with the country today," he said.

Althea Gibson, former Wimbledon and U.S. Tennis champion, called for equality of opportunity for women in sports.

"Our male-dominated society prefers women to be physically and psychologically dependent," she said.

Carlene Bamert Wins Tourney

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Carlene Bamert of Fairview Park, a 33-year-old mother of three girls, won the Ohio State Ladies Singles Match Game bowling championship Sunday.

Mrs. Bamert bowled a 235 in her final game, besting defending champ Nellie Glandon by 54 pins.

RUNNING AWAY WITH IT—Golfer Lee Trevino runs away from the cup as he watches a birdie putt drop during final round of the Greater New Orleans Open at New Orleans, La. Trevino shot a 7-under-par 65 to finish eight strokes ahead of the field to collect $30,000 prize.

Bob Charles Wins Greensboro Open

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Bob Charles, once again a winner on the American tour, is busily rearranging his schedule.

"I'll have to change things round a bit," the slender, graying veteran from New Zealand said Sunday after his victory—his first since 1967 in the United States—in the Greater Greensboro Open Golf Tournament.

"I'll now make two more trips to the United States this year," he said. "I'll definitely play in 15 tournaments. I'll definitely play enough to keep my card."

He hadn't planned on that. He'd planned to surrender his playing privileges in the United States until his final-round three-under-par 68 stood off a half-dozen challenges and won him the $44,066 first prize in this tournament.

Charles, a 38-year-old former British Open champion who abandoned the American tour a year ago, finished with a 270 total, 14 under par on the 7,021-yard Sedgefield Country Club course.

He finished one stroke ahead of Ray Floyd and Lee Trevino, tied at 271. Floyd, who lost a share of the lead with a bogey on the final hole, had a closing 67 and Trevino, gunning for a second consecutive triumph, once took a share of the lead with three straight birdies and finished with a 66.

Charles opened the final round with a one-stroke lead, but a bogey on the second hole opened the gates. Five other players shared the lead at one time or another on the sunny day before Charles solved it all in the run down the stretch before a massive gallery of 47,253.

The left-hander birdied the 17th after a beautiful iron shot left him a five-foot putt. He holed it to go 14 under and move past Trevino, who had finished at 13 under.

Lennie Waldo Takes Tri-County

WEST CHESTER, Ohio (AP) — Lennie Waldo, of Columbus, holds the 30-lap speed record at Tri-County Speedway's half mile oval after winning the late model feature Sunday in 9:27.39.

Waldo, in his 1969 Camaro, took the lead from Don Gregory, also of Columbus, on the 19th lap. Gregory, in a 1972 Camaro finished second and John Vallo, Miamisburg, finished third in a 1973 Camaro.

Flyers Beat North Stars In NHL, 6-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

For the Philadelphia Flyers, it was "50 and out," while for Buffalo's Rick Martin, it was "50 and over."

The Flyers, the West Division champions, ended their regular National Hockey League season Sunday night with a 6-2 triumph over the Minnesota North Stars, giving them 50 victories and making them only the third team in NHL history to reach that figure. The Boston Bruins, the East Division winners, have done it three times, including this season, and the Montreal Canadiens have done it once.

Martin, meanwhile, became only the third player in NHL history to score 50 or more goals in one season, raising his total to 52 with a three-goal outburst in Buffalo's 5-2 victory over the St. Louis Blues.

In other NHL regular-season finales Sunday, the Boston Bruins battered the Toronto Maple Leafs 6-4, the Chicago Black Hawks whipped the Detroit Red Wings 7-4, the New York Rangers downed the Montreal Canadiens 6-4, and the Atlanta Flames beat the Pittsburgh Penguins 6-3.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

FORTUESDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): Some astute rechecking may save you time, wasted energy and costly errors now. Don't divert efforts into unconstructive channels.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): Planetary influences stimulate your ambition and talents. Be enthusiastic about all that could advance your cause and, in dealing with others, emphasize your nice sense of humor.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): The Gemini likes room for action, new projects, the means to improve unfavorable conditions. This day provides the opportunity for all of these.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): A new contact, possibly a change of scenery or activity indicated. Make the most of all, since they could lead to further gains.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Watch trends, but do not follow all. Ask questions, remember similar past conditions and the results of actions taken. You can find the right answer if you really search.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Aspects now stimulate your creative abilities and your imagination, but don't let the latter run "wild." Maintain a down-to-earth attitude even as your ambitions soar.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): If you do not organize your program early — and efficiently — you may find more to tackle at day's end than is reasonable. But fine achievement is possible if you keep things in order.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A certain amount of daring could prove profitable now, but, as with the Virgoan, don't let your imagination run out of bounds. The native of Scorpio has a lot of common sense. USE it!

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): You may be faced with some new responsibilities, but don't let them dismay you. New benefits will accompany them, and all will add up to a more interesting future.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Certain activities will be definitely out of order, others prominently "in." Use good judgement. Consider the total picture when looking for guidance.

ACQUARIUS (Jan. 21 Feb. 19): You have the ability, but may lack the "nerve" or faith in yourself to move at the right moment. You must stress self-confidence now. Things ARE going your way.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): If you tried and did not attain, review well before trying the same thing again. A new method could turn the trick. Don't become discouraged.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with unusual versatility, a lively imagination and a great enthusiasm for life. You are attracted to both music and the theater, but could also make an excellent business leader. You have a good head for finances and, even if you choose one of the arts or professions as a career, could make a great deal of money at it. You are inclined to be too "bossy" at times, however, tend to "lay down the law" for everyone. Curb this trait since it could make enemies of the very ones whose affections you desire. Birthdate of: Charles Baudelaire, Fr. poet; W. C. Fields, famed comedian.

'Political Dirt' Hunt Widespread

WASHINGTON (AP) — A secret task force to compile intelligence reports on President Nixon's political enemies was set up inside the Internal Revenue Service within months of Nixon's becoming president, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker said today.

Weicker presented a documentary history of the special unit to three Senate subcommittees. He also disclosed a flood of new details on how, he said, the White House used government agencies to thwart its political opponents in the United States and overseas.

Weicker said that by the time the special unit was dismantled in August 1973 it had amassed intelligence files on 10,000 American taxpayers which contained 12,000 classified documents, the Connecticut Republican said.

Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee, produced other documents which he said showed the IRS had been used repeatedly by that time to harass political opponents of the administration.

"When that situation exists in the country obviously something smells," Weicker said. "It is a provision of the American constitutional system."

Weicker read non-stop from a huge pile of documents, many of them supplied by former White House counsel John W. Dean III, in a session which was virtually a repeat of the Watergate hearings of last summer.

Earlier, Weicker said detective Anthony T. Ulasewicz probed the private lives of more than a dozen senators and other political figures in 50 separate investigations during Nixon's first term.

Weicker, a member of the Senate Watergate committee, said he has obtained White House files showing the full scope of the activities of the former New York City detective, who told the panel last summer his primary mission at the White House was to probe allegations of "political dirt."

The Connecticut Republican said he also has uncovered White House memos showing the "improper and perhaps illegal use of actual tax return information, both of individuals and of organizations."

He was to testify on his findings today at a hearing convened by three Senate subcommittees investigating the extent of political spying by the federal government.

Weicker said that among the records he has obtained are memos showing the White House obtained from the Internal Revenue Service "sensitive case files" on a large number of individuals, including several prominent entertainers.

The list includes the names of Frank Sinatra and Sammy Davis Jr., both of whom endorsed the President's 1972 reelection campaign.

It also includes the name of California Republican Gov. Ronald Reagan.

Others on the list provided by Weicker are comedian Jerry Lewis, actors Peter Lawford, Richard Boone and Fred MacMurray and comedienne Lucille Ball and her husband, Gary Morton.

Weicker said he also has documents to confirm that the White House used IRS tax data "to protect friends of the White House, such as evangelist Billy Graham and actor John Wayne."

The Ulasewicz investigations, Weicker said, included background probes into the lives of the most politically prominent Democrats who contended for their party's 1972 presidential nomination.

These include Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace; New York City Mayor John V. Lindsay; and Sens. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Documents released at the time of the Watergate hearings showed Ulasewicz, working out of the White House but on the payroll of Herbert Kalmbach, then President Nixon's personal lawyer, conducted his own investigation of Kennedy's role in the drowning of Mary Jo Kopechne.

The memos indicated he discovered no useful information.

Weicker said the list of Ulasewicz investigative targets also included at least two Republicans, Sens. George Murphy, R-Calif.; who was defeated for re-election, and Mark Hatfield, R-Ore., an opponent of Nixon administration war policies in Vietnam.

Other Senators identified by Weicker as having been investigated by Ulasewicz were William Proxmire, D-Wis.; John Tunney, D-Calif.; Quentin Burdick, D-N.D.; Vance Hartke, D-Ind.; Albert Gore, D-Tenn.; and Joseph Tydings, D-Md. Both Gore and Tydings were defeated for re-election.

The Adult Fellowship of St. Paul Church, Stoutsville, met April 4, at the church for the regular meeting.

Mrs. Arthur Leist was in charge of devotions, using the theme, "What is your Excuse for Living?"

The business meeting was conducted by Weta Mae Leist, president. The society, with twenty members present, voted to give $25 to two different families who were victims of Wednesday's tornado.

Mr. and Mrs. Dave Bolender had the program consisting of devotional readings and contests.

The Youth Fellowship, under the leadership of Mr. and Mrs. James Lands, also met Thursday later joining the Adult Fellowship for lunch served by Mr. and Mrs. Emmett Hinton and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Waldeich.

Boyle Jury Hears Details Of Plot

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — The hired killers of Joseph "Jock" Yablonski have been identified and the source of their payoff allegedly traced to the union treasury. The prosecution is now preparing to turn its efforts to link former United Mine Workers president W. A. "Tony" Boyle to the assassination plot of his union rival.

The 72-year-old Boyle is accused of three counts of murder in the Dec. 31, 1969, slayings of Yablonski, his wife and daughter as they slept in their rural Clarksville home in southwestern Pennsylvania.

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague last week called 46 witnesses, including three confessed participants in the plot. Four other persons who have either been convicted or pleaded guilty to murder were brought into the courtroom and identified.

The prosecution alleges that during a meeting in mid-1969 Boyle ordered Yablonski killed and authorized $20,000 in union funds to pay the assassins. Boyle steadfastly denies this.

William J. Turnblazer, former president of the UMW's District 19 which includes Kentucky and Tennessee, is one of those reportedly present at that meeting in Boyle's Washington, D.C., office. Turnblazer is expected to testify possibly late today or Tuesday.

Turnblazer, 52, a Middlesboro, Ky., lawyer, pleaded guilty last September to charges of violating Yablonski's civil rights in connection with the killings.

In statements given to the FBI and Pennsylvania state police Turnblazer is quoted as saying that he met in June, 1969 with Boyle and Albert Pass, 52, Middlesboro, former secretary-treasurer of UMW District 19 and also an international board member from Alabama's District 20.

The meeting was held shortly after Yablonski, then a UMW vice president, announced his candidacy to oppose Boyle. And it was then, according to Turnblazer's statement, that the murder plot was hatched.

Yablonski lost his bitter battle by a 2-to-1 vote on Dec. 9, 1969. Three weeks later he was slain.

Arnold R. Miller, now UMW president, testified last week that Yablonski never conceded the election. Miller reported that he had called him at his Clarksville home and related a conversation he had with him the day after the election.

"He (Yablonski) said he was going to continue to fight," Miller said. "He said he was going to ask that ballots be impounded and that he was going to go to court."

Miller said that on Dec. 14, 1969, he met with Yablonski and many of his supporters in West Virginia and "he reaffirmed his position that he was going to continue his efforts to overturn the election."

Miller said that the action Yablonski began culminated in May, 1972, when a federal judge set aside the election on grounds of fraud.

Miller said he became the candidate against Boyle and defeated him in December, 1972.

Controversy Erupts Over Housing For Tornado Victims

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A controversy developed Sunday in the Cincinnati area over government mobile homes moved last week for tornado victims by U.S. Rep. Donald Clancy, R-Ohio.

Residents of South Road in suburban Bridgetown said they could get no information from either the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration or the U.S. Housing and Urban Development Department.

John Jodice, one of about 100 residents who lost homes to last Wednesday's tornadoes, said "Clancy promised those trailers last week. What's the deal?"

Clancy could not be reached Sunday. A Clancy aide had said 1,000 mobile units were available at Richmond, Ky.

WEST CENTRAL

SOUTHWEST

Snow and colder tonight. Lows in the upper 20s and low 30s. Clearing and cool Tuesday. Highs in the mid to upper 40s.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio appeared headed for a cold, wet Monday with a chance of snow in the northern parts of the state.

Temperatures at daybreak ranged from just below freezing in the northwest to the 40s in central and southern Ohio.

Rain was expected to move into central and southern Ohio with periods of wet snow in the northern counties. Accumulations of two to four inches were expected in the northwest by evening.

The low pressure system causing this weather was forecast to move eastward tonight and the rain and snow were to end from the west. Lows overnight were to drop into the 20s or low 30s.

Skies should begin clearing over western Ohio Tuesday while the precipitation ends in the east. Highs were to be in the upper 30s and 40s.

High pressure following the low was to bring fair weather back Wednesday and a slow warming trend should have temperatures back to normal seasonal levels toward the end of the week.

Americans Divided On Abortion

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP) — The American public remains almost evenly divided in the abortion controversy, according to the Gallup Poll.

In the latest survey, taken last month, adults in more than 300 towns throughout the country were asked: "The U.S. Supreme Court has ruled that a woman may go to a doctor to end pregnancy at any time during the first three months of pregnancy. Do you favor or oppose this ruling?"

Of 1,582 adults surveyed, 47 per cent expressed approval, while 44 per cent said they opposed it. Nine per cent had no opinion.

A similar poll in December 1972, taken before the Supreme Court ruling, showed 46 per cent in favor and 45 per cent opposed.

The polling organization said little change had occurred in the attitudes of major population groups between the surveys. In both surveys, more men than women favored abortion privileges. Catholics continued to oppose them by about two-to-one, and Protestants remained slightly in favor of them.

In the latest poll, 51 per cent of the men and 43 per cent of the women expressed approval, while 38 per cent of the men and 49 per cent of the women were opposed.

The poll found sharp differences based on education. Persons with college educations favored abortion privileges 67 per cent to 27 per cent against. Of those whose educations stopped with high school, 44 per cent approved and 48 per cent disapproved. Among those with grade school educations, 25 per cent approved and 57 per cent disapproved.

Lordstown Strike Comes To End

LORDSTOWN, Ohio (AP)—Members of United Auto Workers Local 1714 returned to work Sunday night ending a three-day walkout at the Fisher Body fabricating plant here.

The 2,800 members ratified the new contract in a vote taken Sunday afternoon.

Terms of the agreement were not immediately available. George Metcalf, director of personnel at the Fisher Body plant, said the union made progress in seniority and working situations, "but I am not in a position now to disclose the details."

The strike forced the closing of the adjacent Vega assembly and truck assembly plants, affecting 5,000 more workers.

A spokesman for General Motors said that the workers at the Vega plant will not return to work today, because their is no backlog of sheet metal for the Vega operation. However, the spokesman said the workers at the truck plant will return to the job today.

Policemen Hurt In Apprehension

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Two police officers suffered minor injuries today when a stolen North Olmsted police car crashed into their cars after a chase on the Ohio Turnpike at up to 115 miles an hour, officers reported.

Police said the patrol car was stolen shortly after midnight. They said the driver sped east along the turnpike, tried to leave at the Akron exit, and smashed into a guard rail, an Ohio Highway Patrol car and two other police cars before stopping.

A SURE WAY TO CUT FOOD COSTS

You're concerned about holding down your weekly food bills. Kroger shares your concern! But supermarkets have no control over the wholesale costs we must pay —and when these costs go up, they must eventually be reflected in retail prices.

There is a way you can cut your food bills right away ... and without sacrificing quality or flavor. Food shopping experts across the nation recommend that you buy your supermarket's own brands. These offer quality equal to the nation's best-selling brands, yet are usually priced lower.

At Kroger, we offer several of our own fine brands. You'll see our own name, "Kroger," on most of them. Other high-quality Kroger brands include such familiar names as Country Club, Royal Viking, or Yubi. Strict specifications for these products call for quality equal to or better than the national brand most people buy.

And remember ... every product sold at Kroger is Guaranteed Unconditionally. If you're not pleased, we'll replace it or give your money back. So why not try the Kroger Brands? You're nothing to lose and a lot to gain.
